

Those 33hours – getting them to work

One hour to full day – Themes from Cúram

While much of the 33 hour requirement will be taken up with necessary in-house work, there will also be opportunities to explore practical and relevant issues with the support of expert presentation and facilitation. Cúram, through its personnel, has extensive experience of working with all levels in the school community. To further resource schools we outline below the various themes we can facilitate from one hour meetings to full day sessions.

- Classroom management
- Behaviour Code review
- Tutor training
- Year Head Team
- Governance issues
- Conflict resolution skills
- Stress management
- Time management
- Team building
- Bereavement & suicide issues
- Teaching & Learning Styles
- Motivation – staff and students
- Parent sessions
- Policy review
- Posts of Responsibility review
- Single-issue staff meetings
- Effective planning sessions
- Financial review & planning
- Enacting ethos & vision
- Promoting the school

Cúram now have a wide range of experienced personnel available to them to ensure that the theme or issue of concern to your school will be facilitated with expertise and experience. Each session will be tailored to your specific needs to ensure that it will be practically focused.

What Curam Offers

Cúram is committed to independence, innovation and excellence. In addition to working with staffs we also provide individual support to school leaders, Boards and Trusts in a variety of ways from governance and pastoral reviews to leadership coaching and strategic planning. We are involved in a number of long term commissions working with individual and networks of schools on specific projects from mediation and financial planning to vision enactment and publications. We are working with NAPD to promote excellence in professional development.
